

Dastavard is Iran's first specialized journal of Industrial Design, devoted to establishing a platform for the interactions of all parties involved with different aspects of product or service design in one way or another; including industrial designing, engineering, manufacturing, distribution, and the trade as a whole. Dastavard is a peer-reviewed, open-access journal aimed at publishing research, review and promotional papers, essays or even design critique on varied aspects of industrial design. Moreover, the journal seeks to provide a national & international forum for the exchange of research findings and creative thoughts from research designers across the country as well as overseas designers and communities.
